

'Corona Conversations' to be held online by Chamber

SLIDELL - The St. Tammany Chamber is offering the public several online "Corona Conversations," led by a panel of experts, that will touch on various topics as they relate to the COVID-19 situation.

The conversations will explore the impact of each topic on the local economy of St. Tammany, as well as identify the unique challenges facing all sectors of the parish, discuss shared and complex goals, and find action steps around an approach to minimize negative outcomes.

Session I and II have already been held and covered the topics of Public Budget Challenges and Healthcare. They can be viewed by going to the following website: Northshorefoundation.org

Upcoming sessions are:
Session 3. Education and Workforce—Wed., Aug. 12 at 3 p.m. via Zoom.

Session 4. Retail/Office—Wed., Aug. 19 at 3 p.m. via Zoom.

Session 5. Hospitality/Quality of Life—Wed., Aug. 26 at 3 p.m. via Zoom.

Session 6. Community Needs—Wed., Sept. 2 at 3 p.m. via Zoom.

The upcoming Education and Workforce conversation will include Dr. William Wainwright, Chancellor for Northshore Technical Community College; Pete Jabia, Interim Superintendent for St. Tammany public schools; Melissa Kirsch, Executive Director for Tri-Parish Works; and Kathryn LeBlanc, M.Ed., founder/president of Cedarwood School.

The event is hosted as a partnership between the Chamber and the Northshore Community Foundation.
